

Pittsburg State University

Located in the heart of the Midwest, Pittsburg State University (PSU) has more than 150 undergraduate programs and 50 graduate programs. The university awards bachelor's degrees, master's degrees, education specialist degrees, associate degrees, and professional certificates across four colleges- the College of Arts & Sciences, the Kelce College of Business, the College of Education, and the College of Technology. PSU also offers an Intensive English Program for the opportunity to learn English for academic success. PSU faculty pride themselves on being able to give personal attention to students through keeping class sizes small enough to allow for personal interaction. PSU has a thriving student body comprised of over 7,000 students from 38 countries. Students have options from over 150 student organizations, including 10 international clubs, to become involved in. The city of Pittsburg is centrally located within driving distance of several major cities, making it the perfect location for travel.
